The work „Origin“ is a large-scale video projection.

A computer analyses a connected tone signal and out of this signal generates a cross which reacts in form and colour to the sound. If there is no tone then there is no cross to see. Low, middle, and high pitches are differently illustrated.

The video installation can be implemented into either musical or literature performances or even implemented to react to audience noise in a room.

The installation is adaptable in shape, reaction, and design, just speak with me to discover the possibilities.
